Konica Hexar RF Printed Manual - camera manual

The Konica Hexar is a magnificent 1990s 35mm film camera that no one has ever seen. It is probably the best hand-held, low-light camera ever made. Even the noisiest version of the Hexar is more quiet than any other 35mm camera I have ever used.

Konica Hexar - Ken Rockwell
The Konica Hexar is a 35 mm fixed- lens, fixed focal length autofocus camera which was produced through the 1990s. It was introduced to the market in 1993. While styled like a rangefinder camera, and intended for a similar style of photography, in specification it is more like a larger "point and shoot" camera.

This Konica Hexar RF is Leica-mount, manual focus rangefinder camera. It uses all LEICA lenses, as well as Leica-mount lenses from Konica and others. The Konica Hexar RF is a great camera on its own, but sadly collectors have bid the used price up to levels that make it silly to buy.

Konica Hexar RF - Ken Rockwell
Konica Hexar AF The Ultimate Available Light Fixed Lens Point & Shoot The Konica Hexar AF is a wonderful available light candid camera, yet deceptively simply and deceptively complex. In some ways it has no peer, justifying its "cult" camera status as the ideal stealth street camera.

Konica Hexar AF - CameraQuest
Along side the automatic functions common to the genre of cameras the Konica Hexar best fits into, it features aperture priority and even a full manual mode. On top of this, it also offers a few extra options often lauded as " hidden " features that unlock its potential. Unfortunately for the Konica Hexar, I don ' t see it like that.

KONICA HEXAR RF MANUAL PDF - Trust PDF
Starting from approx. May, 1972, Konica Hexanon and Hexar SLR lenses were marked with a production code, showing the production time of the individual lenses. It seems that at this time the change from chrome ring to all-black lenses was already completed. At least I have never seen a chrome ring lens having such a production code so far. The codes were originally printed on the back side of ...
